
STAFF 2011

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

It is with great pleasure and enormous pride that I take the opportunity to address the 2011 graduating students for Swan View SHS. Whilst I have been at the school for a relatively short period I have been very impressed with the maturity, decency and wisdom our graduating class has demonstrated.

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the previous and now retired Principal Mr Peter Wilson, who led Swan View much of this graduating class's 5 year journey through high school.

Please join me and read through this year's Year Book which recognises the achievements and adventures of our 2011 Year 12 senior students. This year 49 students are celebrating the completion of five years of secondary schooling and twelve years of education in total. Each group of graduating students leave behind their own stamp on our school. Your particular stamp has been most significant.

My special message to the Year Twelves's:

Personal attributes and qualities make each of you who you are. Empathy, respect, responsibility, consideration, preparedness, and effort aptly describe each of you. It is when as individuals we apply these attributes and qualities to each and every aspect of our lives that we truly commit to being the very best that we are capable of.

Your teachers and your parents have worked hard to instil these values within you it's now up to you to acknowledge and reflect these in all that you do.

I must acknowledge this year's Student Representative Council which has made significant contributions towards improving the educational environment and opportunities for students at SVSHS. In particular the five Year Twelve leaders have this year proven to be highly collaborative, intelligent, empathetic and solution oriented.

To Julio Machado and Danielle Courtney our Head boy and Head Girl, and school leaders James Didier Hofer, Maddison Kensitt and Liam Pegler my congratulations and sincere thanks for all of your efforts in leading this year's leadership group.

In life you will make some mistakes, that on reflection you may regret? What is important is that you recognize these mistakes, learn from them, make amends, demonstrate sincerity and take responsibility for your actions. In life, I believe it is most important to be responsible students, daughters, sons, friends, employees and human beings for integrity cannot be purchased.

And it is our own integrity that should be valued and guarded most highly.

So, as you prepare to leave the high school life that has been a part of your every week day for five years you need to consider what is the difference between school and life? What will change and where do you start? Well, in school, you're taught a lesson and then given a test. This helps to prepare you for life outside of school. In life, you're given a test that teaches you a lesson.

Learn each lesson well with a passion and commitment that will continue to make you proud of your achievements.

I would like to use a quote from the late Steve Jobs, the founder of Apple, this is from his 2005 Stanford address:

"Your time is limited. Don't let the noise of others' opinions drown out your inner voice. And most important have the courage to follow your heart and intuition….Everything else is secondary."

So to the Year Twelve Graduating class of 2011:

Believe in yourself and Believe in others
Look for the best in everything and everyone
Be positive and kind, healthy and wise
Make good decisions based on sound judgements
Commit to your family and friends, don't leave it for another time
Be proactive and responsive
Maintain good attitudes and actions
And most importantly be honest to yourself

My very best wishes for your futures treasure your school memories and make yourselves and us proud.

Good luck…….. until we meet again….farewell.

Damian Shuttleworth

FAREWELL SPEECH

My name is Mr Pollard and I have been this year's Year 12 leader.

This evening is a special one for us all and for most of the year 12 students represents the culmination of 5 years of high school education at Swan View Senior High School. Many of you started here in year 8, a year in which unfortunately I had not yet arrived.

I joined you all when you were all year 9 students as your LOTE teacher and became your year leader the following year.
I have fond memories of that first year. It seemed as though there were a 100 of you in that tiny LOTE room. Every lesson I tried to convince you all of the benefits of proficiency in a second language. I greeted you with a warm and friendly Konnichiwa every lesson. I taught you how to introduce yourselves and worked hard to extend your ability to respond to simple questions in Japanese, expecting perfectly formed original sentences enunciated with enthusiasm and flare.

Well… it didn't quite go the way I had planned but at least I managed to keep you in your seats and in the classroom… for most of the time. Suffice to say that none of you were backwards in coming forwards and you were all willing to offer me your opinions on your terms and in your own way - Something that hasn't changed to this date.

To tell you the truth, I am not sure how much LOTE you actually picked up that year, but what I do remember is how we used to talk as we got to know each other and gained respect for one another. I have very fond memories of that time as that inevitable student territorialism that always accompanies the first year of a new teacher's tenure dissipated. Gradually you let me in to your year 9 world as we talked about this and that and argued about other things. Our classroom interactions moved away from stop that or do this please to what do you think? Or why is that so..? You probably didn't realise it at the time but these were magic moments for me as I realised that you had accepted me.

The next year I became your year leader

I know you weren't really sure of what to expect from Mr Pollard. But I remember organising a laser skirmish reward evening at the school and managed to convince many of you to pay the fee and come back to school on a school night. I am sure that the chance to shoot me with a laser was the main incentive but I do also remember that I took out at least half of you from the balcony before I noticed I had been shot by the other half. That's when I realised you were all very clever and that we were therefore in for some pleasant academic surprises in the following years.

Year 11 was pretty much a rehearsal for this year. I took some of you on a university tour in an attempt to convince you to study hard. I invited speakers to talk about setting goals and planning for your future and various careers. There were telephone calls home to remind you to get in to school, to hand in work, to get to form on time – all good work aimed at getting you to achieve your best.

We began this year with a camp. We ran, swam, ate, talked, bonded and talked about your futures. A touching moment for me was when I got you to write letters to yourselves to be opened at the end of the year. Do you remember the letters to yourselves? Have you achieved what you promised yourself you would achieve?

This year, the school ball at the Hyatt was an experience I will never forget. You all made me and the school proud as you 'tripped the light fantastic' (Umm that means that you all danced enthusiastically). It was another bonding experience for us all. I am particularly grateful to the student ball committee who visited the venue, designed a menu, bought decorations, collected forms, allocated tables etc . And to see you all on the night arriving as you did in stretch limo's wearing suits and elegant dresses – well it just made all the hard work well worth it... and good luck for next year Mrs Vine, I know you will manage well.

For all the hard work and effort that myself, your teachers and everyone concerned with this school and your education have put in this year, it has all been about getting you to this point in your lives and helping you bring all your plans to fruition. There have been tears of laughter and anger and frustration as you have worked to achieve your goals. Your teachers have encouraged you, sometimes scolded you but all for the greater good.

Sometimes your teachers have pushed you a little harder that you had expected and I know it has been a very serious and sometimes difficult time for you all over the past couple of terms. And let's not pretend that it is all over yet.

The exams are now over. Some of you will be looking at further study at TAFE or University. Others will be looking at apprenticeships or jobs. There is still more to do. Today is not necessarily the end of all the hard work as in some ways it is just the beginning. There are still many challenges ahead and even more obstacles. There is economic uncertainty, world political instability. The world is constantly changing and opportunity comes and goes. Having come this far, you will still need to adapt and change and it is my hope... our hope that we have given you the skills and knowledge you need to be resilient as you move forward to success.

Look around you and remember the last event of the best years of your life. Whether you realise it or not, the students you are sitting next to, those in front of you and the teachers and education department staff sitting around the room that you have come to know have been a huge part of the formative years of your life. After today, it won't be the same.

We won't be there to hassle you, to remind you to work, to try to encourage you when you need it. You'll have to do that on your own. Soon, this school and these people will be where you came from and what you experience everyday. You'll start to remember the good and forget the bad and from time to time you may even wish you were back here.

So ... Enjoy this evening and take away the memories. They will make you stronger as you carry this experience with you in life. Think back on the friends you have made, the experiences you have had and the things you have achieved and build on it.

It was Winston Churchill that said if you aren't a radical when you are young, you haven't got a heart and if you haven't become a conservative when you are old you haven't got a brain.

You have all been magnificent over the past years at SVSHS. You have done so much with so much passion giving everything your all – straight from the heart. From your radical days in the early years, you have learned from your mistakes, begun to take the advice of your teachers and have adapted to change. Now, although not what I would describe as conservative, you have direction, have become confident and are not afraid to challenge yourselves. You have so much to take away with you. Make good use of it. Build on this and see this as the end of one chapter of your life and the beginning of a bigger and better one.

Thank you for the opportunity to have been your year leader these past three years. I hope that I have been effective and have been of benefit to your lives and the direction that you have decided to follow. I have enjoyed the experience and suspect in a way that as much as I hope that I have been able to offer good advice and direction to your lives that I have been the greater beneficiary of the experience.

It has been a period of growth for me too and I have learnt a lot from you. You are never too old to change and you have had a great influence over me. I am going to miss you all, each and every one of you. Thank you very much for an enjoyable journey and good luck for the future.

FRANKENSTEIN

We kicked off the term three with ”Frankenstein”. The shows went extremely well, in fact several audience members commented that this was “the best one yet”!

I am particularly proud of the maturity and enthusiasm of our students – they handled a difficult and wordy script and made it ‘live’ for their audiences.

It was fantastic to see so many family, friends and past students come along to support the show. It makes all our hard work worthwhile. Particular thanks are due to Kira Pearce, Barbara Jess, Scott Grainger, Kylie Ogg and Josh Brown for their assistance with the design and management.

BOY'S SOCCER REPORT

"Swan What? SWAN VIEW!!"

2011, what a year this has been, and certainly some of the most memorable moments I will keep with me for the rest of my life are from on the field. We didn't have a fantastic year in terms of winning, but I don't think that there was one occasion when the boys didn't come away from a match smiling. If I could go back and change anything, I wouldn't, and I honestly don't think any of the boys would either. We went into the competition already the underdogs and we really intimidated the other teams, with our 'can't be knocked down' attitude. The support we had from the girls, parents and mates was tremendous and I would like to thank everyone for the support you contributed. I'd also like to thank Mr. John Staer. For quite a while we didn't have a coach. That meant that we wouldn't be able to compete, but he stepped up to the plate and held after school training and of course took us to and helped us at our games.

The year 12's on the team were:
Michael Vincent (Captain), Philip Larkin (Vice Captain), Julio Machado, Jack Cave and Didier- James Hofer

Thank you once again to everyone, players, spectators, parents, coach and refs who oversaw the culmination of a family, Swan View Senior Boys Soccer Team 2011.

Michael Vincent (Team captain)

GIRL'S SOCCER REPORT

Upper School Girls Soccer Team: The Harpies!!

At the end of 2010 a group of year 11 girls wanted to put together an upper school girls soccer team. The founders were Danielle Courtney, Paige Miller and myself (Zoe Stewart) who managed to gather 16 students from years 10 and 11. We organise some uniforms which we re ordered from Mr Lopez. We decided to name ourselves the Harpies and found a coach, Mrs Duke.

In 2011 we trained in terms one and two under the guidance of Mrs Duke and Year Ten student Jessica England's Dad. We trained at Midland oval once a week and were developing our skills for our first match against Reboth (away). It was a great outcome with our team winning 2 – 0 with Jess scoring both goals and Danielle nearly scoring from a corner. We could not have won without Aoife as our goalkeeper, whose exceptional saves kept us in the lead even when the other team was given a penalty.

Our second game, also away, was against Kelmscott and we managed to pull together and came away with a 2 all draw, with Jess scoring both goals.

Our third and final game in the round robin stage was to be played against St Brigid's. We needed to win to finish on top of the ladder and move on to the next stage or draw in which we would have been second and also move on to the next stage. The game result was a nil all draw.

We finished 2nd in our group which meant we would be moving on to the knock out stage. The first game was against Perth Modern which we unfortunately lost and were out of the competition.

This was the first time in a while that Swan View has had a girls soccer team and it was really good to have one this year, especially in our final year at high school (year 12). We had fun and it was one of the most memorable parts of year 12.

I don't think I could leave out our cheerers on the side line s (the Year Twelve boys) who managed to annoy the other team and some of our players with their screaming and chants.

A big thankyou to Mrs Duke for coaching the team this year.
